Many animal protection organisations are working towards ensuring that the animals in Germany and around the world lead a decent life without suffering. The possible plans of action are multi-faceted: from campaigning against animal testing, factory farming, whaling and bull fighting, to advocating suitable methods of keeping pets. Alongside the targeted aid, for example, providing accommodation in animal shelters, animal welfare activists often pursue socio-political aims: intensive educational and public work is carried out to draw attention to the terrible living conditions of many animals and to call for relief.

This address list is characterised by an above average response to calls for donations to international animal and species protection as well as for regionally limited organisations and animal shelters in Germany and in other European countries.
