In the modern "single household" a dog is a true friend and companion and we cannot imagine it any other way. For many people, these pets fulfil the function of the true and patient companion that accompanies them through thick and thin.

The dog owners in this file usually have a medium to high income and often live in homes with access to a garden. They are happy to dig deep into their pockets for their pets, both for food and for a wide range of accessories.

This target group is best suited for use in the sectors: Innovations, garden, house and home as well as for donations to animal protection societies.

The addresses are also released for providers of animal food and other animal items.
